4.11 The Company may, from time to time in its absolute discretion, withdraw the whole or any part of its services on a temporary or permanent basis.

5. LEVERAGE

5.1 Leverage obtainable in CFDs trading means that a small deposit or down payment can lead to large losses as well as gains. It also means that a relatively small movement in the markets can result to a proportionately larger movement in the value of your investment and this can work against you as well as for you. CFD Transactions have an inherent risk and you should be aware of what the implications of this are.

5.2 Leverage restrictions may apply on certain products or jurisdictions as it is imposed by the relevant industry practices or regulatory requirements accordingly. In addition, it should be noted that the Company will continuously monitor the Leverage applied to Clients' positions and reserves the right to amend the Account's Leverage depending on the Clients' trade volume and trading patterns.

5.3 The Client thus accepts, acknowledges and understands that the automatic reduction of Leverage in her Account could result in the Account Equity falling below the updated Margin requirements, which could result in a Margin Call or Stop Out. The Client is therefore strongly advised to maintain appropriate amount of Margin in his Account(s) at all times in the event of an automatic reduction of the Account's Leverage.

5.4 The Company may also add to or change its Leverage Limitations at any time without prior notice to be given to Clients.

6. MARGIN TRADING

6.1 CFDs are margin products and the transactions related to them will be done on Margin. This means that the Client must supply a specified initial Margin, on agreement, of the overall Contract value.

6.2 If the Account Equity falls below the Margin requirement, the Trading Platform will trigger an order to close all open positions. When positions have been over-leveraged or trading losses are incurred to the point that insufficient Equity exists to maintain the current open positions, a Margin Call will result, and open positions will need to be liquidated.

6.3 The Margin Call process is entirely electronic and there is no discretion applied from the Company as to the order in which open trades will be closed.

6.4 It is strongly advised that Clients maintain the appropriate amount of Margin in their Accounts at all times. Margin requirements may vary based on Account size, simultaneous open positions, trading style, market conditions and the discretion of the Company.

6.5 The Client thus accepts, acknowledges and understands that:

- The Company does not check whether the Transactions of this nature are appropriate to his financial situation;
- Before deciding to trade on Margin he should carefully consider his investment objectives, level of experience and risk appetite;
- The Company sets freely the amount of Margin, the assets that may be used as collateral and the extent of any collateral such assets may provide;
- All the Client's assets are therefore blocked and pledged in this connection;
- The Company may also change its rates of initial Margin and/or notional trading requirements at any time without prior notice, which may result in a change to the Margin the Client is required to maintain;
- Taking into consideration the low Margin normally demanded for these Transactions, price variations in the underlying asset may result in major losses, which could significantly exceed the investment and Margin deposit committed by the Client;

- The Client may be required to provide a Margin at very short notice to avoid the risk of having his positions closed and realizing a total loss;
- If the Client fails to comply with a request for additional funds within the time prescribed, the position(s) may be liquidated at a loss and the Client will be liable for any resulting debit;
- In certain cases, price changes may be so drastic that the Client's positions may be closed without any period allowed for him to restore his Margin;
- The Company provides the Client with online access to enable the Client to monitor his Margin requirement at all times;
- FORTUNO is not responsible to notify the Client when there is a Margin Call on his Account; and
- The Margin Calls are made by the Company directly through the online Trading Platform only and the Client has the possibility to see on his Account the existing assets and Margins.
- During the time period from 23:50 to 00:10 server time increased spreads and decreased liquidity can take place due to daily bank rollover. In case of inadequate liquidity/spreads during bank rollover, widened spreads and excessive slippage may occur. Also fully hedged accounts might also experience stop-outs due to increase in spreads which leads equity to go below zero, and hence trigger a stop out.

7. RISK WARNING

7.1 The Client unreservedly accepts, acknowledges and understands that CFDs trading:

- is highly speculative;
- carry a high level of financial risk, as they are subject to excessive price fluctuations which may cause substantial losses;
- the losses may include all of the Client's investment and also any additional commissions and other expenses;
- is only suitable for persons who are able to cope with the associated risks by bearing the financial losses; and
- the Company does not guarantee the capital of the Client's Account or its value at any time or any money invested in any Financial Instrument.

7.2 When trading in CFDs, the Client is trading on the outcome of the price of an Underlying Asset and that trading does not occur on a regulated market but over-the-counter(OTC). The Client accepts that the Company is the only execution venue, which is a non-regulated market.

7.3 Since virtual currencies are trading on various exchanges worldwide (non-centralized), and since we derive our pricing from certain exchanges, our pricing might be significantly different than prices from other exchanges. You should understand the above, and maintain your account balance accordingly, knowing that our prices can be different from prices observed elsewhere.

Among other rights that the Company has in the way of handling these Accounts, is the transferring of funds between Accounts to cover possible negative balances, of any of these Accounts, without this affecting in any way the right of the Company to terminate the Account or close all Client's open positions.

The conversion will be made at the exchange rate prevailing on the day and at the time when the relevant funds are at the disposal of the back-office department of the Company.
